

The Sun and the Rose.

The following is copied from a manuscript written by the late Alice Carey. It has never appeared in print as one of her poems, but it is very characteristic, and has a deep meaning tenderly expressed:

The Sun, who smiles wherever he goes,
Till the flowers all smile again;
Fill in love's day the heart of the Rose
That had been a bud till then.

So he pushed back the folds of the soft green hood
That covered her modest face,
And kissed her as only a lover could,
Till the crimson bared her face.

But we do not know when his golden hair
Tangled her hair as he kissed her;
And for the night of dark despair,
When her cheek with tears was wet!

For she loved him as only a maiden could,
And he left her crushed and weak,
Stifling in vain with her faded hood
To cover her guilty check.
